Naylor Named Acting President

Student Expression of Faith, Not Protest

It was a little disorganized, but after all this isn't Berkley. With some 12:30 classes dismissed for an all-faculty meeting, several hundred students converged on the Pep Bowl for a rally.

The student-sponsored rally, spearheaded by LeRoy Dyer, saw some 250 students march into the center of the Pep Bowl bearing an assortment of placards. They ranged from the caustic "Is Pittman a Puppet?" and "What's The Real Reason?" to a light-hearted "Down With Finals" and "Mom, Send Money."

After the crowd had milled restlessly for a few minutes, LeRoy Dyer stepped forward and took charge.

"We are here not in protest, but in an expression of faith in our university," Dyer said. "We ask for an explanation and we ask because we care."

"We hope to show the Board of Regents that we care about the future of the university. We hope the Regents feel that it is necessary to give us an explanation."

Dyer told newsmen that he hoped the demonstration would "clear the air" and let the students have some say in what was happening.

After Dyer's brief speech the crowd again began to mill, and broke into an occasional chant of "why? why?" and "we want Traywick."

Then someone remembered the faculty meeting and the crowd promptly decided to march on the Administration Building. The mob jammed into the first floor hall and marched to the doors of the auditorium, again chanting "why? why?"

An announcement was made that the faculty did not know any more than the students. To this the students cried, "Let's demand to see the Regents and find out what they have to say."

One student seemed to express the general feeling of the group when he stated that the students "have a stake in the university and feel they deserve an explanation."

Traywick Steps Down As Omaha U President; Denies Conflict Involved

By Bob Erxleben

Rumors were going around campus Tuesday morning that University President Leland Traywick was being ousted. It was also widely circulated that administrative dean Dr. Kirk Naylor would be named to the post.

No one seems to know—or at least no one is telling—how the rumors started. But by midmorning a local radio station was broadcasting news of the alleged action pending. Before noon, all of the local media were on to the rumor and scrabbling for some hard facts.

OU Faculty Sends Letter

About 150 Omaha University faculty members met Wednesday afternoon. The purpose for the hastily-called meeting was to demand an explanation for the OU Board of Regents' actions in the selection of a new president.

The teachers, more than half of OU's entire faculty, called for the sending of a letter to Regents president Robert Spire. The faculty asked that the letter be answered before class dismissal for the Christmas holiday.

The letter (see page 2) asked basically how the Regents could justify their actions. The main objection was not against the Regent's decision, but against the failure of the Regents to ask for faculty consultation and support in their decision.

The probing led to the announcement that Dr. Traywick and Dr. Naylor would hold a joint press conference in the Regents room at 3 p.m. The conference was, as Traywick put it, "to clear the air".

Members of the press were issued two mimeographed statements, one from Dr. Traywick; the other, a reply from Regents President Robert M. Spire.

The Traywick statement read:

Today, I, as President of the University of Omaha, am submitting my resignation to the Board of Regents effective January 1, 1967, so as to pursue economic studies, writing and other scholarly activities. Administration, particularly that of being a university president, leaves virtually no time for such pursuits.

Spire's reply acknowledged that the board had been advised that Dr. Traywick intends to resign as of January 1, 1967. It

Retrospect 66

This issue completes the 1966 Gateways. It's been an eventful year. Briefly, here are some of the highlights.

January

President Leland Traywick announces that the engineering program at OU would not be abandoned as the University receives funds for a new loan program. Students show concern as always, about draft build-ups as the spring enrollment is expected to near 8,000. And Dr. Howard Bowen, president of the University of Iowa, delivers the commencement speech for 552 mid-year graduates. Diane Berry is appointed as the new Tomahawk editor.

February

Students vote on a combo to play at Ma-ie Day, while Bootstrappers rate OU co-eds in the first Gateway survey. And booze on campus is explored with the negatives outnumbering the positives. The campus conscience is probed as the second survey focuses on student's religious beliefs and discovers that not too many know where the Chapel is. And the OUampi Rooms swings to the sounds of the newly-installed juke box.

March

The Board of Regents announce OU will go to the voters for another try at a mill-levy increase. And the Hawks win over the Doves as the Gateway looks at the war in Vietnam. The Student Council sets the place for the Milo Bail Fountain, and the celebrated Gateway survey on weekend activities has the campus staggering.

April

Dr. B. F. Skinner, psychology professor at Harvard, addresses the Honors Convocation at which the Corinthian Society becomes a chapter member of Phi Kappa Phi. And 38 journalists receive awards at the annual Journalism Banquet. State Senator Terry Carpenter proposes a bill to make OU a part of the University of Nebraska, as the mill-levy campaign moves into high gear.

Leland E. Traywick Eighth OU President

Dr. Leland E. Traywick became the eighth president of the University of Omaha February 1, 1965. He was president of Southwest Missouri State College, Springfield, 1961-1964. A native of Oklahoma, Dr. Traywick earned his Bachelor's and Master's degrees at the University of Missouri and his Doctor's degree at the University of Illinois. He has been an instructor at Stephens College, Columbia, Missouri (1937-1939) and an assistant in the Economics Department (1939-1942) at the University of Illinois.

Before entering the army in 1943, President Traywick was an economist with the War Production Board and the Office Chief of Ordnance, Washington, D. C. After World War II, he became assistant professor of economics at Western Reserve University, Cleveland.

From 1947-1960, he was at Michigan State University, East Lansing, as assistant dean of the College of Business and Public Service, acting director, Bureau of Business and Economic Research; acting head and professor of the Economics Department. From 1960-1961, he was an associate director of the Committee for Economic Development, New York City.

Dr. Traywick holds memberships in a dozen professional and learned societies and is listed in Who's Who in America.

Administrative Dean Dr. Kirk E. Naylor received his B.A. degree from McPherson College, McPherson, Kansas in 1941. He received his M.A. and Ed.D. degrees from the University of Kansas at Lawrence in 1947 and 1952.

Before coming to the University of Omaha in 1960, Dean Naylor was director of teacher education and dean at Southwestern State College, 1955 to 1960. From 1952-1955, he was associate professor of education at Fort Hays, Kansas, State College. He served as research director for the Kellogg Foundation Project, Kansas, from 1951-1952 and was superintendent of schools at Phillipsburg, Kansas from 1949-1951.

Retrospect 66

May

Bob Erxleben is named as the fall editor of the Gateway, which presents a mill-levy special detailing the University's need for more money. Ma-ie Day festivities are resigned over by Pat Karre Tompsett, who wins as Princess, while OU loses as voters see fit not to increase the mill levy. The Regents are "forced" to raise tuition for the fall semester. Jim Butler is elected Student Council president. And nearly 700 graduates listen to Dr. R. G. Gustavson, former chancellor at NU.

June

The College of Applied Arts receives the new name of Engineering and Technology from the Regents who also elevate Dean George Rachford to University vice-president. And a record 2,877 students take advantage of the last chance at $14 tuition classes during the summer.

August

President Traywick outlines a five-source revenue plan with which the University hopes to solve its long-range financial problem. The plans include state aid, federal support and fund-raising.

September

The County Board of Equalization cuts the OU mill-levy to 1.71, and later District Court Judge Paul Garrotto grants OU a temporary injunction in the University vs. the County Board mill-levy hassle. Fall enrollment slips to 8,479. Fred Ray takes over as new director of the Student Center, while hammers sound on campus as the office addition to the Administration Building takes shape.

October

Ralph Bradley takes over as director of the Office of Information replacing Robert McGranahan. The semester's second survey airs student complaints about parking, or rather the lack of parking. Homecoming votes are secured in Samardick vaults awaiting Homecoming, while class officers are announced.

November

Should 18-year-olds be allowed to vote? "No", replied students questioned by the Gateway. A crowd of 1,800 attended Parent's Day activities as OU bows to Washburn. Samardick unlocks Homecoming votes, and Kathy Wybenga is chosen to rule over OUampiland. Over 300 alums returned for this year's Homecoming. And OU receives invitation to appear on the nationally-televised G.E. College Bowl in February.

December

The Young Republicans call for an investigation into unfair "no parking" areas in the Fairacres district, as the new parking lot on the former baseball practice field is opened. Karyl Ronsin is chosen as this year's Tomahawk Beauty Queen, and John Weber is named spring editor of the Gateway. Tuesday of this week President Traywick announced plans to resign effective January 1. Dr. Kirk Naylor will step in to serve as acting president.

And as the 1966 Gateway becomes history, history continues to be made. What will 1967 bring? It's anybody's guess, but it should prove interesting.

Faculty Letter To Regents

Mr. Robert Spire
President of the Board of Regents
University of Omaha
Omaha, Nebraska
Dear Mr. Spire:

This letter is written neither to support nor to protest the appointment of Dr. Kirk Naylor as Interim President of the University, but merely to ask the following questions concerning that appointment: Who recommended it? Who on the faculty was asked to support it? Why was a representative faculty and administrative group not consulted? By what process, and on what grounds, was the decision reached?

While authority to appoint the president of a university is vested in its governing board, it is a universal practice in America for such boards to consult with the faculty and administrative officers concerning qualifications of candidates. Failure to do this can be expected to result in serious problems, or even disaster, for an institution. Since we are convinced that satisfactory answers to the above questions are of the utmost importance to the future health of the University of Omaha, we respectfully request a full and early reply.

Traywick Resigns Amid Confusion

noted that the board would meet in regular session Thursday, and intended to accept Traywick's resignation and appoint Dr. Kirk E. Naylor as acting president of the University.

In spite of the Tuesday morning rumors, Traywick steadfastly insisted that he did not decide to submit his resignation until early Tuesday afternoon. The resignation was submitted in a meeting with Dr. Naylor and Regents President Robert Spire.

Traywick could give no explanation of the rumors that had circulated. But he said, "Things like that have been known to happen . . . erroneous rumors can spread rapidly."

Dr. Naylor said that he first learned of the situation when he was asked to serve as acting president "at about 1:30 Tuesday afternoon."

Dr. Traywick said that he had no conflict, either personal or of a policy nature, with any board member. He referred to Spire as "a good personal friend."

He added, "I leave with warm feelings toward the university and everyone connected with it. It's been a wonderful experience and I've been glad and delighted to be here."

Of his decision to resign his position here, Traywick said, "It's been in the back of my mind for some time. I want a chance to do some studying, write some articles, and later, perhaps, a book."

As far as returning to administration work, he said, "chances are against it." He added, "However, I don't want to close the door completely on such a possibility."

He said he hasn't decided if he will stay in Omaha.

FEATURING

ANDY AND THE MANHATTENS

CIC Cager Campaign Starts Sat.

The Indians begin a four-game home stand tomorrow at 8 p.m.

The Indians host Ft. Hays in the Fieldhouse. This will be the first CIC game for Coach Borsheim's squad.

Ft. Hays, according to Borsheim, is a team that presses a lot. They are also a pressure ball club.

To date the crew from Ft. Hays has been scoring at a torrid pace. They have hit 90 or more points on many occasions.

Colorado State Tough

The Rocky Mountain powerhouse, Colorado State, invades the Fieldhouse Monday.

Emporia should be able to vouch to the validity of the Staters. Colorado State dumped the Emporia Tigers earlier in the season 108-82.

This year Colorado is listed as the number one team in the Rocky Mountain area.

Rockhurst Holiday Breaker

Rockhurst, the NAIA District II representative last year, invades after the holiday break. The Indians will have the break to prepare for the January 4 encounter.

This year, Rockhurst is again rated as a tough ball club. Three of the five starters of last years team are back to stalwart the club.

Rockhurst has recruited many boys from the St. Louis area in adding depth to their squad. To date the club is 5-1 on the season.

So far the Indians have not lost at home. The home court advantage has given the Indians a 3-0 record.

Following this four-game homestand the Indians hit the road. They will not play in the Fieldhouse again until February 7 when they entertain Pittsburg State.

OU basketballers bounced back from their loss to Doane to bomb Midland, 73-60, Tuesday night.

The win boosted the surging Indians to a 4-1 record for the season.

The loss was physically damaging to Midland. Warrior Mike Draemel was knocked unconscious late in the game in a wild scramble under the basket. He required hospitalization.

Dennis Browne led all scorers with 28 points. He also grabbed 20 of OU's total 51 rebounds.

Browne also proved to be a tiebreaker. A three-point play with 3:30 remaining in the first half gained the first lead (27-26) for the Indians.

The Indians upped this margin to 29-26 at the half. The closest the Warriors came in the second stanza was 56-53 with 4:30. Draemel brought his teammates that close with a three-point play.

Len Todd and John Armstrong each contributed 14 points to the winning effort.

The 13-point win margin was the greatest for the young season. Already the Indians have half as many wins as the entire 8-14 1965-66 season.

Doane's Tigers brought an abrupt halt to the Indians winning streak. The Tigers dropped the Indians 72-69 at Crete, Neb.

Indian Coach Jim Borsheim felt the loss was due to the poor shooting percentage by the Indians. The Indians managed only 38 per cent from the field.

The Tigers on the other hand hit at a 53 per cent clip.

Defeated Indians Outplay

The Indians, although beat in the final tally, outplayed the Tigers. Dennis Browne and Bill Haas dominated both the offensive and defensive boards.

Coach Borsheim stated that if the Indians had played up to their capacity they could have beaten the Doane crew.

The Indians stayed close all through the game, but couldn't find the range needed to break away from the Tigers.

Dennis Browne paced the Indian attack in garnering 24 points. Len Todd followed with 18. Todd netted most of his points the last half in dropping 15.

OU Grapplers Hold Their Own Against Top National Olympic-Style Wrestlers

Eight Omaha U Wrestlers traveled to Lincoln last Friday and Saturday for the Great Plains Wrestling Tournament where they were pitted against some of the nations best Olympic free style wrestlers.

Hakanson . . . freshman

Coach Don Benning said, "It was a new experience and a new style of wrestling for the boys. I was pleased to know that they could hold their own against some of the top-notch wrestlers in the nation."

"If they would have wrestled our style I think we would have beaten most of them," said Curlee Alexander, OU's scrappy and durable 115-pounder, who lost two decisions each by one point.

Washington . . . Style Familiar

Kinze Williams, 123, Roy Washington, 152 and Reggie Williams were the only OU wrestlers to reach the 3rd round semi-finals.

Kinze won three and tied one before being ousted by the 123-pound champion.

Washington, the only matman familiar with the Olympic style said, "The style is good for anyone with Olympic aspirations."

He was beaten by the fourth-place finisher in the 152 division after winning 3 and tying one.

Williams . . . Wins Four

Reggie Williams said, "I had twenty-five in my weight class and I was told I had to win 6 to be champ, I won four. I wish I had been a little more familiar with the style."

"I think we had more places than any of the small schools. The only schools to beat us were the big schools," he said.

Williams was beaten by the third-place finisher in his class.

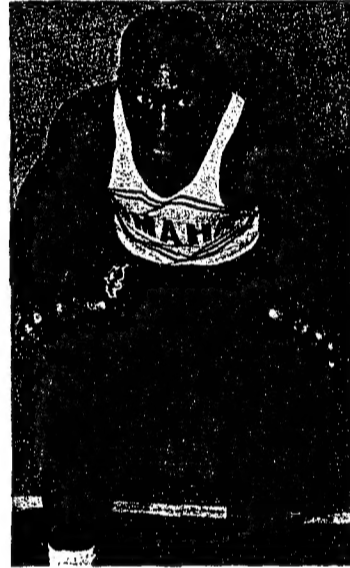

Wendell Hakanson, freshman wrestling at 160, won his first two matches by 6-3 and 12-2 decisions before losing to Steve Bay, Indiana State in the third round, by a 3-1 margin.

Benning . . . Pleased

"I was pleased with their showing even though it was the first time that we have participated in the Great Plains Tournament," said Coach Benning. He said there is also a possibility that the team may go again next year.

OU wrestlers will host Northern Illinois tonight in the Fieldhouse at 7:30.

Cooliest Man Chosen At Zeta Frost

Zeta Tau Alpha will present its annual all-Greek Fantasy 'n Frost dance tomorrow night in the Student Center.

During the dance, the honor of Zeta's Coolest Man will be bestowed on one of the following candidates: Denny Boehme, Tau Kappa Epsilon; Larry Bourne, Theta Chi; Gene Fisher, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Harold Hall, Pi Kappa Alpha; and Daryl Taylor, Lambda Chi Alpha. The winner is chosen on the basis of one vote per Greek card.

The intermission entertainment will be provided by the Zeta Zingers, headed by Sue Kessinger. At this time the sorority will present a $150 scholarship to a junior or senior active who has contributed the most to the sorority, and maintained a high grade average.

The Phaeton's Combo will play at the informal event. The time is 9 to midnight, and admittance will be one Greek card per couple. Popcorn and punch will be sold.

Helen of Troy Named

Jean Krogh was selected Helen of Troy by Theta Chi fraternity Friday night at a dance following the Olympics.

Jean, a small hazel-eyed brownette, is following in the foot steps of her sister, Susie, who held the title in 1962.

She is a junior and a psychology major, with membership in Psi Chi, psych honorary, Chi Omega and Angels Flight.

The Olympics were won by Zeta Tau Alpha and Tau Kappa Epsilon. Sigma Phi Epsilon and Pi Kappa Alpha tied for second in the fraternity division, while Alpha Xi Delta was second among the sororities.

The events and their winners were:

Chariots - Lambda Chi
Tricycles - Zeta
Pyramids - Teke, Zeta
Tug-o-War - Teke, Zeta
Egg Toss -

Sig Ep, Alpha Xi
Three-legged race -
Alpha Xi, Teke
Land-boat race -

Sig Ep, Sigma Kappa

The games were marred when the surprise event, the land-boat race, sent one girl to the hospital.

Jean Krogh . . . Helen

Mystery Santa Comes Tonight

'Tis the season to be jolly, and tonight is the night.

Everyone is invited to attend the Student Council's annual Christmas dance tonight. The Starfires Combo will provide the music from 9-12.

The Student Council will have refreshments for everyone, and door prizes for the lucky. The big bag of gifts is filled with a stereo portable record player, two swinger polaroid cameras, two transistor radios and record albums.

Unlucky students who don't win a doorprize will still have a chance. A Mystery Santa Claus will appear at 10:30, and Christmas orders can be made.

Admission charge for the dance is only one activity card per couple.

Class Activity For 38 Seniors?

Most of Omaha University's 1,283 seniors haven't impressed anyone with their burning interest in class activity.

But the 38 who attended the second Senior Class meeting Monday (as opposed to 34 at the first meeting) elected Dr. Wilfred Payne and Dr. John Blackwell as class sponsors.

Senior class fee was set at $4.00, with an additional $3.50 assessment for those wishing to attend the Spring dinner dance.

Another $3.00 will be added if a member wants to bring a guest outside of the Senior Class.

Class officers Tom Ridley, John Berkheimer, Terri Pospichal and Randy Nielson plan to continue discussion on this year's Senior Class gift at the next meeting.

Yule Music By Chorus

The University Chorus will present the annual Christmas program today at 10:30 in the Administration Auditorium.

The Chorus will provide traditional Christmas music combined with a contemporary Christmas story composed by Ron Nelson. Included in this work is a brass ensemble under the direction of Jack Malik, a combined men's and women's chorus and soloist Dr. Robert Ruetz.

All 10:30 classes will be dismissed because of the convocation.

The convocation will include songs sung in both English and Latin. The University Brass Ensemble will play carols ten minutes before the program begins.

Wing Completed On Ad Building

With exception of a few "minor problems" construction of the Administration Building is complete.

Building and grounds chief, Bob Krenzer, says that these "minor problems" are mostly in delivery of fixtures. Krenzer said that the desks for new offices will not get here until the first of the year.

Delivery of several electrical heating elements is another "minor problem." "We are seven heaters short," the buildings and grounds chief said. These heaters are to go under the windows "to drive the cold air out."

With the completion of the new wing, the University will be richer by 960 square feet of space. Broken down, this includes 640 square feet in 42 additional offices. These are on the second and third floors.

The first floor of the new wing will be occupied by the mail room and the stenographic bureau.

Controller Harold Keefover said that the wing has cost "roughly $192,000." However, he added that this is not the final figure because the minor incidentals have not been taken into account.

Some of these minor incidentals come under the heading of "change orders". Keefover explained that these are changes in the blueprints that the architect did not foresee.

These changes range from installation of partitions in room B5 which houses animals for psychology to the removal of a concrete floor and its replacement with a reinforced concrete floor.

All totaled, the "change orders" cost some $1800.

Carols And Santa Greet Children

Guitars playing Christmas carols will highlight the Christmas party for faculty children sponsored by the OU Women's Club.

Dr. C. Robert Keppel and his wife Barbara will provide the unique entertainment for an estimated 120 children ages two through ten in the Women's Quonset Hut tomorrow from 3 - 4:30 p.m.

Greek Grind

Sigma Phi Epsilon is combining its annual Christmas dance and Playboy party into one happening this year.

Holiday Inn is to be the scene for the Sunday night function. The Smokers combo will provide music from 8:30-12:30.

Decorations direct from Playboy magazine, and six co-eds will add to the atmosphere as "bunnies".

Selection of playmate of the year will highlight the evening. Girls vying for the title include: Marsha Grafton, Linda Gertsch, Bev Lindgren, Laura Wells, Kathy Wybenga, and Bobbi Spicer.

MOEBA Gives Party For Miller Accepts Three

MOEBA, Metro Omaha Educational Broadcasting Association has accepted three new member groups.

They are Douglas County District 8 (Elk City), St. Bernard School and St. Patrick School. They will give the association 1,296 new students, bringing the total to about 85 thousand.

The announcement was made Friday at the monthly board meeting.

The board has also accepted the resignation of Dr. Paul Miller, Superintendent of the Omaha Public Schools. Dr. Miller will leave for Cincinnati in January.

AAS Shows Films

Tonight brings the last viewing of the Bob Hope films. The films, sponsored by the Arnold Air Society in conjunction with the USO, are being shown in the Conference center auditorium.

Admission for the 7 p.m. show is 60 cents.

Coed of the Week

Mary Christmas

Someone's going to have a merry Christmas when they find Coed of the Week Mary Jacobi under their tree. The 22-year-old junior hails from Wisconsin, noted for cheese and, it seems, cheese-cake. Our Coed manages to fit a number of activities around studies in her foreign languages major. She is president of the Zeta Tau Alpha pledge class, a member of the Zeta Zingers, WRA, Ipmauoes and ski club.
